

As we start a new year, we remember a founder of the health center movement. H. Jack Geiger, who died at the end of December 2020, was a leading proponent of “social medicine”—the idea that doctors should use their expertise and moral authority not just to treat illness but also to change the conditions that made people sick in the first place: poverty, hunger, discrimination, joblessness and lack of education.

May we all continue his legacy through our Community Health Center work in 2021. Happy New Year, and let's get to work.

Oregon CHCs Start Receiving COVID-19 Vaccines To Vaccinate Staff

Oregon CHCs with over 100 employees have started receiving COVID-19 vaccines for vaccinating staff. CHCs who have less than 100 employees should work with another provider, such as a hospital, other FQHC, or local public health agency, to receive vaccines.

For more information, read the Jan. 5 OHA Phase 1a Sequencing Update, listen to the recording of OPCA's Jan. 5 COVID-19 Member Briefing or review the slides. Email Claire Tranchese with questions.

For the latest COVID-19 vaccine information, visit OPCA's COVID-19 Resources page.

Join OPCA's Vaccine Information, Best Practices Workgroup

We know there are many remaining questions about how vaccines will be administered to your staff and your patients and where FQHCs fit in the vaccine picture. CHCs have a critical role in providing COVID vaccinations in Oregon.

To support you in the development of your COVID vaccine programs, OPCA is leading a Vaccine Information and Best Practices Workgroup. Sign-up here. Email Claire Tranchese with questions.

Oregon CHCs in the News

A collection of news and announcements about Oregon CHCs:

Klamath Health Partnership's COO, Amanda Blodgett, shares the effect of the COVID-19 surge on its staff, estimating that roughly 20% of its 135-member staff were sick or quarantining the week before Christmas, everyone from clinicians to front-desk workers to call-center employees.

Virginia Garcia's Dr. Eva Galvez talks to NPR's Rachel Martin, about the issue of vaccination hesitancy among the Latino community in Oregon in this Dec. 15, 2020, interview.

Wallace's mobile unit is supporting the remote Blue River community after the Holiday Wildfire destroyed an Orchid Health Clinic there in late September. Read the OPCA Member Stories blog.

Mosaic Medical announced in mid December that it was awarded $43,000 from the Central Oregon Health Council (COHC). The funds will be used to improve communication and language access services for Mosaic patients. Read the news release.

Rinehart Clinic's Quality Director, Denise Weiss, was a guest on KTIL Radio's Tillamook Today show on Jan. 4 talking about what the CHC is doing to help combat the opioid crisis in Tillamook County.

White Bird Clinic's CAHOOTS program was featured in a Dec. 28, 2020, article in The Atlantic, as a successful crisis-response program that has reduced the footprint of law enforcement—and maybe even the likelihood of police violence.

Spotlight on Staff: Introducing OPCA's Data Specialist

Inspired by the theme of NHCW, Lighting the Way for Communities Today and in the Future, we've launched the Spotlight on Staff blog as a space for members to get to know our talented staff members a little better.

Sarah Heppler still debates whether to call herself an Oregonian. Raised in California, she moved to Oregon to attend college at the University of Oregon and fell in love with the Pacific Northwest. During college, she interned with the California Primary Care Association. Sarah joined OPCA in April 2019 from Zoom+Care.

Sarah's work in 2020 has been focused on COVID-19 and social determinants of health data. She spends a lot of time in Excel and Tableau looking at data and trying to think of creative ways to visualize that data.
